DISTRICT ATTORNEY MUST PROSECUTE ALL VIOLATIONS

Liquor Dealers Are Notified They Must Adhere to United States Laws

According to a communication from Washington the shippers of liquors must adhere to the law. United States District Attorney Charles W. Holt has been directed to proceed against any violation of the Federal penal code, directed against shipment of liquor from license into no-license territory. His statute prohibits any interstate shipment, unless in packages clearly marked with information as to just what the contents are, and the quantity, and the name of the bona fide person to whom sent. The new regulations also prohibit any railroad agent or employee from acting as a special carrier. The penalty for violation is a fine of not more than $5000 or imprisonment for not more than two years for shipment of carrier found guilty. It is said that the new code, when passed, affected certain sections of this state. In southern sections of the country also the new code will change conditions which its advocates have deemed deplorable.

DEFENDANT JOURNEYED MANY MILES

As a defendant in a case in superior court which went on trial Friday morning, Mrs. Martha Smith has journeyed across the country from the Pacific coast from Seattle, Wash. The action is that of Robert Cook, George W. Folsome and William H. Hapgood of Brockton, in a suit against Mrs. Smith for the alleged indebtedness to them. The allegations are, as stated to the jury by Attorney John Scammon of Exeter, that on February 18, 1911, the defendant came to them and claimed to be interested in a gold mine in Alaska which she was financing, and sums of $800 and $700 were advanced on her recommendation.

The plaintiff alleges that she never owned the mines in the far-off territory. For the defense the case is being conducted by Shute & Shute of Exeter and Ernest L. Guphill of Portsmouth, also William H. L. Gilman of Boston. Eastman, Scammon & Gardner of Exeter appear for the plaintiff.

The defense is a denial that any false representations were intended. Mrs. Smith claims to have been one of the first white women to go into Alaska. She was also presented a gold medal by congress for bravery in rescuing the lives of sailors on a British bark which was wrecked on the Alaskan coast in the winter of 1892.

WIFE OF TITANIC'S MAIL CLERK AT POINT OF DEATH

New York, April 26.—Mrs. William Logan Gwinne, whose husband, the chief American mail clerk on the Titanic, lost his life trying to save the registered mail entrusted to his care, has not yet been told of the tragedy. She herself is dying at her home in Asbury Park and the physicians have told her family the shock of the announcement would kill her instantly.

Instead, by orders her people are telling her today he escaped on the fateful night; that he was taken back to England and will soon sail to meet her. She knows her condition is extremely critical, but she is trying to keep alive until she sees him again. The doctors say the end is not far off.

Gwinne was 31 years old and had been in the sea service of the United States since 1896. Besides his wife, he left one child.

Gwinne was in England scheduled to return in charge of the mail room of the Philadelphia when a cable message was received from his wife telling of her illness. By arrangement he was shifted at once to the Titanic to enable him to reach New York as quickly as possible.

RICHESON'S FATE IS IN GOV. FOSS' HANDS

Lawyers Present Petition for His Clemency—His Counsel Refuse to Discuss the Conference

The fate of Clarence V. T. Richeson is now in the hands of Gov. Foss. The petition begging for Executive clemency in the case of the former clergyman, sentenced to death for the murder of Avis Linnell, has been presented to the Governor and his attorneys have made their greatest effort to save the life of their client.

From 4 o'clock to 6:10 yesterday afternoon Gov. Foss was in a secret conference with William A. Morse of Boston, John L. Lee of Lynchburg, Va., and Phillip H. Dunbar, counsel for Richeson; Dist. Atty Joseph C. Pelletier and Asst. Dist. Atty Thomas D. Lavelle in the Executive Chamber at the State House. When the conference was concluded not a word of enlightenment was spoken by the parties interested. The matter was simply taken under advisement.

Gov. Foss later made the announcement, through his private secretary Dudley Holman, that no statement would be forthcoming last night—that the petition would be taken under advisement and that until the stenographer's notes of what had taken place yesterday had been carefully read, Gov. Foss would refrain from any statement.

The members of Richeson's counsel refused absolutely to discuss the conference or its probable result. Dist. Atty Pelletier and his assistant Mr. Lavelle, were as equally reticent.

Whether or not Gov. Foss will decide to refer the petition to the Executive Council is entirely a matter of conjecture. During the conference he listened earnestly to the words of Richeson's lawyers and he carefully and thoughtfully glanced over the typewritten petition, especially that portion of it which prayed for commutation. Not more than half a dozen passionate plea to have the petition referred to the Council, yet

Gov. Foss read and reread that portion in deep study.

While the presence of Dist. Atty Pelletier and Asst. Dist. Atty Lavelle at the conference was considered a matter of much significance, it was intimated after the hearing that the Suffolk County prosecuting officers were present at the request of Gov. Foss and that they expressed no personal opinion.

All the data concerning the character and mannerism of Richeson his peculiarities, his family history and a record of his various illnesses were laid before the Governor. The report of Dr. Lane, the alienist who examined Richeson as to his mental condition last Wednesday in the Charles Street Jail, was also introduced.

The arguments that had been carefully prepared by the condemned man's counsel were made, and through it all Gov. Foss maintained a sphinx-like attitude, except when he became particularly interested in some statement or phase of the argument. At such times he became unusually attentive. But not the slightest intimation could be gleaned of his intentions or probable decision.

When the conference was over at 6:10 he simply gathered together the papers that had been presented to him, the sheets upon which he had made some notes and then announced that he would take the whole matter under advisement.

That the Governor will give the matter of the petition the utmost consideration, however, was manifest from his remarks concerning the stenographer's report.

Those who were in attendance at the conference were besieged by reporters when they left the executive chambers. It is expected, however that Gov. Foss may give some inkling of his probable course some time late today.

RAILROAD NOTES

The summer arrangement of train service on the Boston & Maine will go in effect on June 21.

At the office of the Southern New England Railway Company, here it was announced this afternoon that President E. H. Fitzhugh of the new road and his staff had returned to Boston from a conference with other Grand Trunk officials at Montreal and that work will now be pushed for the construction of the Canadian road's New England branch. E. H. Estoup, formerly assistant engineer in charge of the location and preliminary surveys, was today appointed engineer of the Providence line. There will be 10 resident engineers along the line, and a steam shovel at work for every four miles of road.

John Watts, night gate tender on the Nobles Island bridge, has been transferred to engine-house switches in the yard and Edward Brown takes the place of Mr. Watts on the bridge.

A switching crew that have been suspended for the past two weeks on the coal docks were put back to work today on account of the coal shipments that have arrived.

Foreman Frank Warren and crew of workmen started this morning the work on the abutments of Sagamore bridge.

Assistant Roadmaster Woodman of the Boston and Maine was in Manchester yesterday on a trip of inspection over the Portsmouth branch, to take account of stock, including spare rails, ties and other material. It was learned that the management of the road contemplates the relaying of all the side tracks with heavy rails such as are used in the main track. The side tracks are now laid with a comparatively light rail and it is found that heavier iron is needed for the locomotives and other heavier rolling stock now running on the road.

The funeral of Edward B. Sullivan former general yardmaster at Dover took place on Friday afternoon from his home in that city. Several railroad men and Odd Fellows attended.

A PLEASING PROGRAM.

A good variety of photoplays was presented at Music hall Friday evening. There were those showing comedy, romance, dramatic scenes in some most pleasing and entertaining pictures.

"One is a Business, the Other a Crime," was the subject of a picture showing two newly wed couples, one in better financial circumstances than the other. One of the young men is a laboring man who loses his job and finally we see him in poverty and he and his wife on the verge of starvation. The other couple are prospering and living in "fine style." The latter young man receives a letter containing $1000 for his vote in favor of an important franchise. In desperation the poor young man enters his house and is about to leave with some of the money when he is stopped by the man's wife. He pleads with her telling his story, the other man arrives but the would-be robber is allowed to depart. The wife sees the letter which her husband has received and declares that he is no better than the poor man. The man finally returns the money, refusing to accept the bribe.

"The New Woman and the Lion," is a very amusing picture and brought forth storms of applause. The other pictures are all good.

The vaudeville includes the Lombardians, musical strollers, that present a good musical act.

Clifton and Carson present a comedy act that was given a hearty reception.

DANGER FROM FOREST FIRES.

People Should Exercise Care in the Burning of Brush and Rubbish.

It is important at this season to call the attention of land owners and persons who frequent the woods to the danger from forest fires. Most of our large fires have occurred between the time when the snow goes off and the green growth get well started. Winds are often high, and unless rains are frequent the ground dries out quickly.

Many people take this season of year to burn brush and rubbish about 20 per cent. of the fires last spring were due to this cause. It should be remembered that no person is permitted to brush in or near woodland without the permission of the town forest fire warden.

It is extremely dangerous to leave slash and cut bushes along the railroad lines. Every year the railroads clear their right of way of inflammable material, but to insure safety a wider strip should be cleaned. If

Pitcher Bill Burns of Detroit One of Baseball's Unique Characters

BILL BURNS

Detroit, April 27—Baseball has perhaps never known a queerer character than Pitcher Bill Burns, now a member of the Tigers. Bill has been in the big leagues many years and has pitched for the Washington, Chicago, Philadelphia and Cincinnati teams, but failed to make good with any of the clubs mentioned, though he possessed lots of ability. Last year he was sent to the minors and played part of the season with Minneapolis. It was taken for granted that his major league career was over, but Bill thought differently and dug down in his jeans and gave up $1500 for his release. He then asked Hugh Jennings for a chance. It was granted. Burns thinks that with a hitting team behind him, he can make a record. He has twirled several good games so far.

It is time land owners would co-operate with the railroad companies in clearing brush where cuttings have been made along the tracks, a great many fires would be prevented.

In nearly every town there are some heavy slashings along the most frequented roads awaiting the lighted match or cigar from a passing vehicle. Town selectmen and timberland owners would do well to clear the brush for a few feet along the roads where timber cutting has left an inflammable slash.

A little forethought and attention to such matters would lessen the fire danger materially and reduce the expense which the towns and the state bear in fighting forest fires.

What New Hampshire Did.

New Hampshire saw a great difference between Bass and Roosevelt, and while she has chosen and likes the one, she has rejected the other. He did not allow her admiration for a local leader to interfere with her ability to see straight when it came to choosing between the claims of rival candidates for the presidential nomination. Eight delegates to the convention are not very many. But on those eight delegates Roosevelt had set heart. Extraordinary efforts were made to get them. The speakers sent into New Hampshire were of a decidedly high order. The results show that the people were far from being convinced that the cause of the colonel and his friends is the cause of the people. They evidently believed that the people can rule and rule well with President Taft in the White House, and so they expressed themselves. However, the matter may be glossed over, however many charges of fraud may be made, the result is a blow at the Roosevelt machine and candidacy, and will so be regarded. It would have been a tremendous victory to have secured those eight delegates. But that was not to be. New Hampshire is able to distinguish between promises and solid performance.—Newburyport News.

READY TO FOLLOW LEADER

Unless it is Fear, There is No Contagion So Quickly Spread as That of Emotion.

George F. Bass used to tell a story that illustrated the contagion of emotions.

An old darkey sat by his fireside in a dejected frame of mind ruminating on the miseries of the human race. Towser, his faithful hound, lay on the hearth with his jaw on his paws, absorbing the heat in blissful somnolence. Presently the master groaned sepulchrally. Towser courteously opened one eye for a second and tapped on the floor with his tail. A silence. Then said the master: "Houn, man am bo'n to trouble as de spak's fly up'ard."

Towser shook off slumber for a moment, lifted his head and evinced his sympathy by a steadfast look, then settled down to dreams again. Another silence. Then the master inspired to fuller expression of his woes by the response of his auditor, continued:

"Houn, dis y' arth am a place o' trouble an' a vale o' tears; de debil he roums, up an' down like a hongry lion seekin' who he may devour; de ways o' de weeked am shorely full o' tribulation."

This time Towser's nose was lifted toward the ceiling and a long, lugubrious woo-woo-woo-woo! expressed his acquiescence to his master's sentiments.

"Yes," was Mr. Bass's conclusion, "emotions are contagious; all that is needed is a proper leader."

Portsmouth Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Portsmouth given below you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:

Thomas Entwistle, 47 Coburn street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I was troubled for a long time with kidney complaint. Reading of Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to give them a trial and procured a supply at Phillips' Pharmacy. They cured me and I have since recommended them to my friends and acquaintances." Statement given May 16, 1906.

RECOMMENDMENT.

When Mr. Entwistle was interviewed on June 28, 1911, he said: "It gives me pleasure to confirm my former public testimonial in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. I have had no serious recurrence of kidney disease since this remedy cured me."

HUMAN SYMPATHY.

The Baltimore American says: Deep down in the heart of society throbs the common heart of mankind. It is not different from the heart of the individual. It is apt to become callous and indifferent to the steady beat of charitable appeals and distress stories and the wail of woe that weighs the common atmosphere of living. But it is a heart that is, nevertheless, attentive to the cries of calamity that rise from the abyss of human disaster. Who shall say that as long as the world shares the woe of any considerable portion of its inhabitants. It is not instinct with the finest sensibility to sorrow and worthy of being rated charitable to the core. The touchstone of humanity is the sympathy felt in a common grief.

The Titanic dropped down into the depth of the ocean and left but a fraction of its human freight broken and distracted in the boats to drift upon the waves, waiting and watching for the relief that might loom from the blackness of the night. The touch of human sympathy came in wireless response and changed the course of more than one steamship, and of those who diverted from their course one picked up the boatloads of the men, women and children adrift. But this was only the first expression of human sympathy, the first evidence of the common tie of human interest in the fate of fellows.

ILLITERACY CAUSES TROUBLE.

That illiteracy is in a great measure responsible for the labor troubles that have occurred in the mill cities is the opinion of many persons, and Bernard M. Sheridan, superintendent of the Lawrence schools, states that the moment the strike began the attendance in the night schools ceased.

The Massachusetts laws demand that where any person under 21 is at work in the mills or at any other similar labor and is unable to read or write or have the most common knowledge, such a person shall attend school for a given period.

Mr. Sheridan says when the strike occurred almost all of these young people played away because the law gives them that privilege when they do not work. This incident has given me some cause for studying the situation. The illiteracy is certainly not due to any absence of means for learning. I dare say that the Lawrence school system is amply able to promote knowledge, and especially within the last few years have there been great efforts to induce larger attendance.

"I can say that about 50 per cent. of the night school pupils come because they wish to learn, and the other 50 per cent. attend under compulsion. I have reference, of course, to periods when things are normal with us. The superintendent of schools acts as a clearing house for the industrial workers.

The moment the young folks arrive in the city and want work they must come here for their certificates. We place them under examination and act accordingly. The overseers in the mills have their inspectors and there is close surveillance by the transit officers that the legal requirements are enforced.

"I have come to the conclusion that there is the closest connection between this strike and the large number of young foreigners who will not go to school. It is impossible for them to get even a smattering of what constitutes American governmental affairs? How can they by the desirability of remaining in any possible means have things erica, where the disposition is to in common with those who have either been reared here or have come from foreign parts and taken advantage of the schools?

"The coming and going of many of these people works against any persistent educational campaign. In all New England mill districts I find this condition prevails, but from investigation I find it more marked in Lawrence than anywhere else."

NEW HAMPSHIRE ORGANIZING.

A constitutional convention is a rare opportunity in New Hampshire, and it affords the only method of amending the antiquated instrument which has been in use with comparatively slight modification since 1792. Such an opportunity will come in June. Delegates have been elected and already a number of constitutional proposals have been brought forward.

In this convention the First Ballot idea will have a prominent place. At the request of the national organization, Prof. F. A. Upvike, of Dartmouth College, will prepare a pamphlet similar to the one prepared by the Cleveland Municipal Association setting forth a series of Short Ballot proposals backed up by an adequate array of facts. A local committee will be responsible for acquainting the people with the program.

New Hampshire is better off than most states in the number of its elective officers. She escaped the reactionary wave of pseudo-democracy in the middle of last century which brought about the cumbersome ballot which everyone now condemns on sight. Consequently, the general state officers and judiciary are still chosen by the governor's council. In fact, New Hampshire will not have a great way to go to realize fairly well a reasonable political organization, from the Short Ballot standpoint.

But a great deal needs to be done in the New Hampshire counties. Just what that will be is for the local committee to determine. The New Hampshire proposals will have a more or less direct bearing on all the New England states whose local government is singular in that it preserves the ancient "town" organization in the state legislature.

Up to the present time Joe Guoin has not favored any of his anxious friends in Concord with souvenir post cards as to his whereabouts.

President Taft certainly got down to business on his recent visit to Boston and left a few bombshells in the Roosevelt camp that cannot be easily removed by the hatless Colonel.

The Boston Transcript says: Probably most of those persons who read the account of the dedication of the Paul Jones statue at Washington think of that daring sea-fighter as a man of strenuous action, a sort of sea knight. Paul Jones was indeed all that, and he was a great deal more. He was a thinker, who thought deeply on naval strategy and navy organization, and, so far that where any person under 21 is at work in the mills or at any other similar labor and is unable to read or write or have the most common knowledge, such a person shall attend school for a given period.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

The Truth About Roosevelt.

At last Mr. Taft is doing his duty. He is telling the truth about Theodore Roosevelt.

When the President of the United States warns the American people that they are "in danger of a dictator who, once he received a third term, would cling like a leech to the White House and never leave it until death removed him," he is performing a service of true patriotism.

The time is past for assuming that Mr. Roosevelt, spurred on by a reckless and ruthless ambition, will hesitate at anything. The time is past for assuming that there are rational limits to his lust for power. The Theodore Roosevelt whose record Mr. Taft presented yesterday cannot be trusted in even the minor details of political controversy. How much less can he be trusted in the vital affairs of constitutional government?

It was a shameful story of Roosevelt falsehood, of Roosevelt treachery, of Roosevelt hypocrisy, of Roosevelt assassination of character, which Mr. Taft told in his Massachusetts speeches yesterday. It was doubly shameful by its revelation of the motives underlying Mr. Roosevelt's attacks upon the President. In the light of the record submitted by Mr. Taft and confirmed in many cases by documentary evidence, it is plain that Mr. Roosevelt deliberately set about to slaughter the President in order to put himself back into the White House.

The pretense of progressive politics is revealed as a fraud and a lie. Mr. Roosevelt is actuated by no concern for progressive government. He is concerned only about his own ambition.

To that end he inaugurated a campaign that would shock the moral sensibilities of a Tammany boss. It was bad enough for Mr. Roosevelt to pose as the leader of the anti-Wall street forces while his third-term campaign was financed by the head of the Harvester Trust. It was bad enough for him to frolic at the mouth against the bosses while accepting all the boss support he could get. But the indictment against Mr. Roosevelt is not returned on the ground of inconsistency.

Inconsistencies may be forgiven or overlooked, but Theodore Roosevelt, systematically debauched public opinion. He deliberately lied about the President of the United States. He willfully perverted the administration's record. He carefully suppressed the fact that Mr. Taft had been consulting him about question like the Lorimer case and reciprocity. He invented charges against Taft, he wantonly slandered Taft, and he betrayed the friend who still trusted him.

The issue involved in Mr. Taft's speeches yesterday do not relate to Mr. Roosevelt's political policies alone but to Mr. Roosevelt's manhood and personal honor. It is plain that Mr. Taft has been guilty of only one offense so far as Mr. Roosevelt is concerned. He stands between Theodore Roosevelt and the White House. He stands between Theodore Roosevelt and a third term. Therefore he must be destroyed.

That is the truth about Roosevelt. —New York World.

The Observer

In "Talk of the Town" in the Boston Herald the following comment is made relative to slugging in the city churches: "The day for vocal display in the choir galleries of our Boston churches seems to be passing, if indeed, it has not already passed, with the present month of April, which is the time when yearly contracts are made with church singers, several of the prominent quartette choirs are to be replaced by male voice choruses, and already a number of male quartettes have succeeded mixed quartettes of solo singers. Protestant ministers and prudential committees are sharing the feeling with their Roman Catholic brethren that church music must be simplified rather than seem to be a concert preliminary to the sermon. We all recall the time, not so far back when the question was 'Who sings there?' rather than 'Who preaches here?' A prayer or two and a few remarks had to be carefully timed at the morning service to give the choir a proper showing." To make the church more attractive should be the aim of church officials and it is very probable that a considerable number of people who are drawn caucward by the attractiveness of the music might get some spiritual food that they would not otherwise receive.

So universal has the game of bridge become as a popular form of entertainment that there have appeared upon the market many new ideas pertaining to the game. A machine has been invented to deal the cards, thus saving the dealer any extra exertion. A pack of cards is placed in the machine, the dealers turn a crank and the cards are distributed in four neat piles before each player. This may be a suggestion for a unique gift. Then, again, for those who are interested in working out unusual hands, for the practice or science of it, there have been boards invented which the exposed hands and their manipulation quite easy. Tiny decks of cards come with this board, and it is a fine amusement for a quiet evening at home. Then the celluloid trump indicator is a novelty that an card players do not possess, and which may please them a great deal, particularly elderly people, whose memories are not as active as they once were. Bridge score pads come in scores of different forms, but one which is less expensive and more convenient than most, is the roll pad. It is like a memorandum pad, and as each page is filled it can be torn off, and the next blank space untrolled. There is also a place for keeping records of old scores. Leather cases which are just large enough to hold two pack of cards and are made in the form of a man's purse make a charming gift for the man who commutes and who passes the time on the train in playing bridge. It is very compact and easy to carry in his pocket.

The project of establishing a great naval station in Narragansett Bay is not a new one with the navy department, but an old one revived by the recent suggestions of Secretary Meyer to dispose of the other yards on the Atlantic seaboard and concentrate everything at the proposed new yard on the sound. In the diary of Gideon Welles, secretary of the navy under Presidents Lincoln and Johnson, appears the following reference to the project: "I addressed Congress through the naval committee on the need of a suitable navy yard and an establishment for the construction of iron vessels and iron armor. The suggestion brought from the city of Philadelphia an offer of League Island. I thought, if the latter place was suitable, a change might be made without increasing the number of yards. Congress authorized me to accept it, but Senator Foster of Connecticut procured a condition that he offered that no board which was to examine League Island with a view of substituting it for the most limited yard should also examine and report on the harbor at New London, and the Rhode Island senators had a further proviso that the waters of Narragansett Bay should be also examined by the same board. For an iron navy yard and establishment neither myself nor any one else entertained a thought of New London or Narragansett Bay nor would either be exactly suitable for iron vessels and machinery; fresh water is essential. Neither could congress consent, nor does the country require four navy yards east of the Hudson.

"That he board I appointed had some disagreement. Admiral Stringham, chairman of the board, and a Tuesday.

resident of Brooklyn, had a rival feeling as regards Philadelphia and a partiality for New London, where he had studied in his youth. Professor Bacho, superintendent of the coast survey, who was one of the board, was even adroit. The board was divided, and forgetful of the great object in view—that of an establishment in fresh water and the suitability of League Island. A majority reported that New London was the best place for such a navy yard. Not unlikely the fact that I am from Connecticut had its influence with some of them, though it had not with me. I am authorized to accept of League Island if the board report it suitable, but I am authorized to accept of New London or Narragansett Bay. But I conclude to take no final step without giving Congress an opportunity to decide, though stating I propose to accept of League Island, which would change the number of yards, if Congress did not disapprove. I am acting for the country, not for any section, or city or set of speculators, and though I have a partiality for my own state, and for New London, where I have many excellent friends. Yet I should be unworthy of my place were I to permit local or selfish interests of any kind to control me against what is really best for the country."

Functions of the Happy.

A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five-pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will; and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted. We need not care whether they could prove the forty-seventh proposition; they do a better thing than that—they practically demonstrate the great theorem of the Livableness of Life.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Habit That Should Be Checked.

Twisting the mouth when talking is a habit pure and simple and one that you can overcome if you exercise sufficient will power. This habit makes more lines than age. Talk before a mirror and you will understand why so many lines are forming. A little piece of court plaster placed each side of the mouth will act as a constant reminder, until you have broken yourself of the habit.

Titled Men Chased Indians.

Many Oxford and Cambridge men in quest of the romantic enlisted in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police of Canada. Many dukes, earls and barons also look with pride to the days when they chased Indians and cattle thieves over the Canadian plains. These men for many years preserved the law and order in the wildest parts of Canada.

Queer Material for Nest.

The heron is not the only builder of strange nests. Wild pigeons, the blue rocks from which all our pigeons are descended, use whatever lies ready to their beaks. One of their nests was found a few years ago on the roof of the Crystal palace at London, consisting mainly of hairpins and pieces of wire gathered in the grounds.

To a Careful Child Only.

Greatest Falls in Africa.

The Victoria Falls, on the Zambesi river in Africa, are the greatest in the world. The water falls four hundred feet, and at this place the river is a thousand feet wide. They were named for Queen Victoria, who visited England, in 1855, when Dr. Livingstone discovered these falls.

Ipecac Needs Moist Soil.

Ipecac, a trailing plant, thrives best in clay soil along the banks of rivers. While it requires a great deal of moisture, it cannot live under water, and consequently in Colombia it is found at its best development in regions where the rivers do not overflow.

CALIFORNIAN SAILOR SWEARS HE SAW ROCKETS

He Asserts Men on the Bridge Must Also Have Seen Them.

Washington, April 26.—In a sworn affidavit after Senator Smith, the statement filed today with the Senate committee investigating the Titanic disaster, Ernest Gill, donkey engine man on the liner Californian, now at Boston, said that vessel was so close to the Titanic on the night of the tragedy that the latter's distress rockets were plainly visible. He charged that the captain of the Californian refused to go to the aid of the distressed vessel. Capt. Lord of the Californian, in Boston last night, denied Gill's statement. Gill's affidavit was listened to with the deepest interest by the committee. Gill was present and was played on the witness stand in the

"Went Past Us at Full Speed."

"I saw the ship, which I took to be the Titanic," said Gill after being sworn, "some time before midnight. She was about 10 miles away, and went past us apparently at full speed. She was a big ship and I saw two tiers of lights. The Californian at the time was caught in field ice, its engines were stopped, and she was drifting with the floe."

The vessel, Gill testified, must have been plainly visible to the bridge and the lookouts, as well as the rockets which were sent up later from the vessel. The Californian's captain, he said, paid no attention to the distress signals, and his refusal to get up steam and go to the aid of the stranger so incensed the crew that Gill tried to organize a protest-party among the men. He failed, he said, because of the timidity of the men, who "were afraid they would lose their jobs."

"What time did the Californian get up steam?" inquired Senator Fletcher.

"I don't know exactly," said the witness, "but it was some time after 5 o'clock."

"From the rockets, Gill judged the distressed ship to be not more than 20 miles off. He described the rockets, his description tallying with that given by Fourth Officer Boxhall of the Titanic, who sent them aloft."

Intermarriage in Brittany.

In accordance with the custom which has made the picturesque province of Brittany famous, twenty-six couples were married at once, at Ploungastel, one recent morning. In the village there are only some eight or nine family names, and the village folk never marry outside of their community. Last year there were forty-two marriages.

The Right to Smoke.

"Do you think it looks well for women to smoke as they do in some Spanish-speaking countries?" "Well," replied the worried Londoner, "it's this way: If they're smoking they're likely either to be quiet and comfortable, or if they're not used to it just the opposite. And either way's a good chance of keeping 'em out of the suffragette parade."

True Nobleness.

To love the unlovely, to sympathize with the contrary-minded, to give to the uncharitable, to forgive such as never pity, to be just to men who make iniquity a law, to repay their ceaseless hate with never-ceasing love is one of the noblest attainments of man, and in this he becomes most divine.—Theodore Parker.

Puzzled.

"What's the matter, John?" "Why, ma'am, here's a note from the master in which he tells me that he's off on a little holiday and he wants me to send his drawing materials along." "Well, and isn't that plain enough?" "Hardly, ma'am. I don't know whether to send his paint brushes or a cork-screw."

Exposed.

Transient—"Was the show last night the real thing, as they advertised?" Uncle Eben—"Real thing, nothing. It was a fake. The boys exposed it. We got hold of the fellow who played the villain, and after riding him around town he finally confessed that he wasn't no real villain after all; just pretending."—Lippincott's.

Knowledge Must Be His Guide.

As the Spanish proverb says, "He who would bring home the wealth of the Indies must carry the wealth of the Indies with him." So it is in travelling: A man must carry knowledge with him if he would bring home knowledge.—Samuel Johnson.

Bright Conundrum.

The following conundrum in a German paper is worth repeating, for, though depending on a play of words, it is good in either language. Why is a slate like matrimony? Because young girls reckon on both.

Responsibilities of Citizenship.

The duties of citizens are not fulfilled so long as there is a single hovel in a city; a man, woman, or child sweated, or a hungry, uncared-for child in their midst.—Exchange.

Sign of a Weak Mind.

In matters of great concern, and which must be done, there is no surer argument of a weak mind than irresolution.—Tilkeston.

Has No Bank Account.

The world owes every man a living, but it doesn't send out checks.

Judging from the new automobiles that are to be seen on our streets, the horseless wagon will be more in evidence this year than ever.

I. B. S. A.

"The Kingdom of God."

A free lecture at U. Y. U. hall will be given on the above topic by Mr. Eugene T. Lake, Sunday, April 28, at 3 p. m., under the auspices of the International Bible Students Association. Why does one part of Christendom (Christ's-kingdom) exploit the other part to the point of starvation? Why does it require the guns of each branch of "Christ's-kingdom" to be trained upon the other branches in order to retain the right to its own door yard?

Why "peace and safety" at such a price when the weapons of Christian warfare are not carnal (II. Cor. 10: 3 to 6)? Are we Christendom or something else? The speaker will go thoroughly into this matter. All are invited to hear this presentation of the Bible standpoint on these questions.

FOLGER—HALL.

Former Portsmouth Young Man Takes Winchester Woman for His Bride.

The announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Fannie D. Hall of No. 46 Calumet road, Winchester, Mass., to her chauffeur of a few months ago, Charles A. Folger, formerly of this city, did not come as a complete surprise to persons who knew them both intimately. The couple had been missing about a week, and now comes the news that the expected event took place at Wilmington, Del.

where the Rev. Wilbur F. Cockran, of the Union M. E. church, performed the ceremony.

Their return to Winchester is expected at any time. For a year, however, Mrs. Hall has rented an apartment in the fashionable West Side of the city, and came to Winchester only infrequently.

Folger was a stranger to Winchester, having come to the town but recently. He secured his chauffeur's license from the highway commission only a short time ago.

While in this city he worked for Drs. Towle and Heflinger, and his first wife was Miss Myra Patch of Kittery Point, who died about two years ago.

Owners of dogs are reminded that all dog licenses in New Hampshire expire next Tuesday and not only will dogs without the protection which a license places over them, unless the license is renewed on May 1 but their owners will be liable to substantial fines for violating the law by keeping dogs without licenses.

The announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Fannie D. Hall of No. 46 Calumet road, Winchester, Mass., to her chauffeur of a few months ago, Charles A. Folger, formerly of this city, did not come as a complete surprise to persons who knew them both intimately. The couple had been missing about a week, and now comes the news that the expected event took place at Wilmington, Del.

where the Rev. Wilbur F. Cockran, of the Union M. E. church, performed the ceremony.

Their return to Winchester is expected at any time. For a year, however, Mrs. Hall has rented an apartment in the fashionable West Side of the city, and came to Winchester only infrequently.

HATS OFF!

Editor of the Chronicle:

With regard to the exhaustive and intelligent (?) report on the physical and financial condition of the city's water plant rendered on Thursday evening to the City Council by a committee authorized by its members for that purpose, we must express our wonder as well as our appreciation of their extraordinary work, especially with that part of their task concerning the plant's physical condition.

That two men with no previous experience, so far as we know, in the management of, or participation in the operating of either by mental or physical effort of this or any other water plant, could, by what would be considered by any expert in this line, an exceedingly superficial examination (their inspection covered probably as many as four hours) determine the needs if any, for the improvement of this particular system of water service is in our humble opinion an accomplishment little short of marvellous. For the credit of our city which can proudly claim them as its own we trust that more than local publicity be given their proud and monumental achievement.

In the end that their phenomenal ability in this particular province of hydrology may receive its just appreciation. We can hardly dare hope that when their seemingly impossible achievement becomes widely known that they will be able to resist the pecuniary pressure that will be brought to bear upon them to no longer, figuratively, "hide their light under a bushel," but go out into the larger and more progressive municipalities where more remunerative rewards await them than can be had here.

Wherever they may be called to go and whatever glory and pecuniary success shall attend them we shall feel that we modestly share at least a portion of their fame from having been instrumental in bringing them into the prominence which they so richly merit.

A Member of the Board of Public Works.

been set for the same but is expected to take place next month.

Have They Retired?
One of the sports in the accounting department who knows a thing or two about the candle plus recently sent a challenge to any bowler in the clerical force of the hull division for a contest on the alley for $10 or more money. Nothing has been heard in the accounting rooms that would indicate that the hull division men have any gumption and it is taken for granted that there is no individual in that department who cares to try five, ten or twenty strings against the wizard in the accounting crew. Perhaps the hull men as a whole has retired from sporting circles.

Looking for the Orders.
As a result of the Titanic disaster it is expected that the department will shortly direct the full equipment of life boats and other life saving crafts on all vessels of the service at all times.

Talking of the New Foundry.
Senator Gallinger who is ever busy as to the wants of the Portsmouth navy yard, recently called on Secretary Meyer and the department in the interest of many things pertaining to this station. The most important thing which the senator talked on was the starting of the big foundry for which the money has been allowed by Congress. With Senator Gallinger was Admiral John R. Edwards, who also spoke on the matter of which he is well acquainted. The secretary is said to have promised to start something on this thing, which has been held up for so long.

Western Union Managers Hold Conference at Portland.

Friday afternoon and evening there was a managers' conference at Portland of the Western Union Telegraph Co., taking in the managers of Maine and New Hampshire and some of Massachusetts, for the purpose of discussing plans that will result in the betterment of the service and as the speaking was of an informal nature the result of the conference was most pleasing.
For the first time in the history of these conferences the meetings for

Chief Mechanic P. R. Fox, to navy yard, New York.

Coal Was as Good as Ever.
Although submerged fourteen years with the Maine at the bottom of Havana Harbor, coal taken from the wreck has been found to have lost comparatively little in efficiency. The navy department has just reached the conclusion following a test conducted at the experiment station, at Annapolis, Md. The amount of deterioration was determined by evaporative tests made with coal freshly mined as compared with the fuel rescued from the bottom of the bay. The loss in efficiency was less than ten per cent.

Manager Everett M. Fisher of the local office was in attendance.

DIRECT-HEATING is the open secret of the wonderful success achieved by users of the MAGEE RANGES. By the simplest possible arrangement of flues, heat from the fire-box is made to circulate over, on both sides, under, and back of the oven. ## To the Citizens of Portsmouth and Vicinity:

On Monday, April 29th, the New Hampshire National Bank and the Portsmouth Trust and Guarantee Company will occupy the new building erected on the site of the Old City Hall.

I would like very much to increase the number of our depositors; when we take possession of our new banking rooms, and if you are not already a depositor in one or both of these institutions, I want to ask you to let us enter your name on our books, and thereby show your appreciation of our enterprise in erecting this beautiful building.

It is not my intention for you to disturb any relations you may now have with any other banking institution, but it may be that you, or some of your friends, may wish to open a new account. If so, it will afford me much pleasure to add your name and the names of your friends to our list of depositors; even if the accounts are small ones. And if you should have the opportunity to direct any business to us, I assure you that I shall appreciate the favor, and will see that the business is given the best possible attention.

We have one of the finest banking buildings in New England. It is built as an absolutely fire-proof structure with modern fire and burglar proof vaults of the most approved construction, affording complete protection against loss. We shall have a large number of safe-deposit boxes to rent, in size and price suited to the wants of everybody, and ample accommodations for all our customers and friends.

I take pleasure in extending to you a cordial invitation to call and inspect our new building on Friday, April 26th, and Saturday, April 27th, from two until nine o'clock.

Yours very truly,

WM. C. WALTON.
